THE ONE THING NEEDED

CHAPTER I

SOWING

BOOK THE FIRST

NOW, when I want to plant, I have no choice but to plant in such a way that the plants will grow to their full potential. Each plant must be treated with care and attention to ensure its success. The soil, sunlight, and water are all crucial factors in the growth of a plant. Without these elements, the plant will not survive.

In this way, we can plant our seeds and watch them grow into healthy plants. It is a beautiful process that brings us closer to nature. Let us begin by sowing our seeds and watching them flourish.
But you said, "There's a job out to be done!"

Mr. Hathorne's eyes were fixed on my face, and he seemed to be gazing at me in a way that made me feel uncomfortable. He was silent for a moment, and then he spoke:

"When I see the face of a person, I can feel their thoughts. I can see the emotions on their face. I can see the fear, the joy, the anger. But I can also see the truth. I can see the lies."

I couldn't help but feel a shiver run down my spine. Mr. Hathorne was a man of mystery, and I didn't know what to make of his words. But I knew one thing for sure: I didn't want to be around him for long.

"I see the truth in your face," he continued. "I see the fear in your eyes. I see the anxiety. But I also see the strength. I see the determination."

I couldn't help but feel a sense of pride wash over me. Mr. Hathorne was speaking the truth, and I was ready to face whatever challenges lay ahead.
