Spring 2018

3 Credits

Course Description: In this advanced seminar in anthropological theory, we explore the burgeoning literature on things generated by the “(re)turn to things” or the “material turn” that began in the 1980s in social sciences and other disciplines disenchanted by the over-emphasis on discourse and other ephemera. We will narrow our focus to anthropological approaches to materiality—the recursive relationships enacted between humans and things. More specific topics of inquiry include thing theory, experiencing things (phenomenology), object agency and entanglement, the social lives of things-in-motion, relational ontologies, things as signs (semiotics), magical things, making/unmaking things, things and the body, things and social identity, and the matter of mutable things, including loss and decay.

Course Design: This course is designed for doctoral students in Anthropology, History, Art History, Sociology, Museum Studies, and related fields dealing with the social aspects of “material culture.”

Course Objectives and Student Goals: Students will identify and explain specific anthropological approaches that draw on contemporary philosophies and theories of the intersections of humans and made things. From conceptual works and case studies they will explore a variety of methods and techniques, including those suitable for their own research. Students will formulate and develop an original analysis of empirical data using a selection of these theories, concepts, and methods on a topic relevant to the course and their research interests. Students will communicate their analysis and findings in oral and written forms. See further information below on the required paper and presentation.

Course Format: This is a seminar, not a lecture course. Information for each class is drawn from the assigned readings. Every student is expected to bring the week’s readings to class (hard copy or in digital format) and be prepared to participate in class discussions of the reading assignments. Notebook computers or similar reading devices may be used in the classroom as long as they are used only for the purpose of consulting the already-completed reading assignments and are not disruptive to the seminar discussion. Other electronic devices such as cell phones should remain silenced.

Readings: This is a reading-intensive course. Required and some recommended readings can be downloaded as journal articles; others are available in pdf form and will be posted to e-learning (Canvas). In addition, two text books are required; they are available for purchase and have been requested to be put on reserve in the library.

Required Books (on reserve)

1. Candlin, Fiona, and Raiford Guins, eds. (2009) The Object Reader
2. Tilley, Christopher, et al., eds. (2006) Handbook of Material Culture (a library e-book)

Recommended Books (on reserve)

1. Boivin, Nicole (2008) Material Cultures, Material Minds: The Impact of Things on Human Thought, Society, and Evolution. available in paperback (2010)
2. Hicks, Dan, and Mary Beaudry, eds. (2010) Oxford Handbook of Material Culture Studies

Canvas E-Learning: Go to elearning.ufl.edu: the syllabus and announcements are here, readings are listed under weekly modules, and discussion questions are to be posted on here as well.

Attendance: Because the course is designed around in-class discussions of the reading material, missing class will prove detrimental to your understanding of that material as well as to the other students' understandings, because your contribution will be lost. More than one absence and frequent tardiness will be noted and result in a drop in the final letter grade (e.g., from A to A-). Failure to be prepared for or to participate in discussion is not much different from being absent.

Class Participation Requirements: All students are expected to discuss all the readings each week. Readings must be finished before class meets so that you have thought about and are prepared to discuss them. Notes must be taken on each reading and brought to class. In addition, each student is expected to post (at least) four specific relevant questions or comments that lead to discussion drawn from at least four different readings. They are to be posted on the e-learning discussion page for each week by 4:00 pm on Tuesday afternoon before class. You must read what is already posted there before uploading your questions to avoid duplication. If someone has already taken your question, compose a different one. You are also expected to read all postings before class, and respond to at least four of them (responses are in addition to questions) Tuesday evening. You may respond to questions drawn from the same reading from which you created a question, as long as it is a different question from the one you asked. Everyone is expected to have read all questions and responses before class begins Wednesday morning. The panels are expected to use those questions, as well as their own, to direct discussion. Posting and reading questions and responses account for 50% of the class participation grade (50 points). The other 50% is based on active and informed contributions to in class discussion each week. Passive individuals who prefer to listen to others cannot earn an A in this course.

Student panels will be responsible for leading discussion of special topics in the last five weeks of the semester. Panels are assigned on a "first-come" basis. The panel should meet before that class to decide the important questions to be discussed, and panel members are encouraged to consult with me. Panels will disseminate their discussion questions by email to the rest of the class by 7:00 pm Tuesday before the Wednesday class meeting, relying in part on the questions posted by other students.

Research Paper and Presentation: A further requirement is a research paper, an original analysis of a body of data using one or more of the discussed theoretical perspectives to elucidate concepts, experiences, or consequences of human-thing relationships. The data must emphasize material phenomena—anthropogenic objects, structures, or features and their making (or unmaking), as well as "natural" or physical phenomena—rather than discourse or direct observation, although the latter may be used as secondary sources of information from historical documents, participant observation, or justified analogy. Paper topics must be pre-approved by mid-semester. An in-class professional quality powerpoint oral presentation (15 minutes) is required together with the final paper. The paper should be in the format of a publishable article (c. 8000 words of text), double-spaced, 12 point font, suitable for a journal such as American Anthropologist, OR the content section of a grant submission (to NSF, NEH) for students lacking a finished analysis. See syllabus for due dates of presentations and final papers.

Make-up Policy: Students with excused absences will not be penalized for missed discussion but are expected to learn the material on their own and to submit discussion questions and responses even if past the deadline. Students unable to finish the presentation or paper on time must meet the requirements and submit the paperwork for an Incomplete grade. See full attendance and make-up policy below.

Components of Final Grade: Posting of discussion questions and responses, participation in every class discussion, and performance as panelists constitute 50% of the grade (100 out of 200 points). The research paper plus the oral presentation make up the other 50% (100 points; 80 pts paper, 20 pts presentation). The gradebook is "closed" at the due date for the research paper.

GRADES: Letter grades are assigned at the end of the semester, based on a total of 200 points; see the grading scale below. See University policy: <http://www.registrar.ufl.edu/catalog/policies/regulationgrades.html>

180-200	176-179	170-175	160-169	156-159	150-155	140-149	136-139	130-135	120-129	116-119	115 or lower
4.00	3.67	3.33	3.00	2.67	2.33	2.00	1.67	1.33	1.00	.67	0.00

Federal privacy regulations prohibit the release of scores and grades over the phone or by email. Any grade adjustments must be made before the gradebook is “closed.”

ACCEPTANCE OF COURSE REQUIREMENTS: By remaining registered in this class, you indicate your agreement to accept the course requirements and expectations as stated in this syllabus. These are in addition to other general University requirements and codes of conduct as stated in official documents. Please fill out the grad information form on e-learning by the second class meeting.

The following information is provided in conformance with University Policy: Please Read!

1. Policy related to class attendance, make-up exams, and other work

Requirements for class attendance, excused absences, make-up exams, assignments, and other work in this course are consistent with university policies (<https://catalog.ufl.edu/ugrad/current/regulations/info/attendance.aspx>). University policy states that absences count from the first class meeting. “In general, acceptable reasons for absence from or failure to participate in class include illness, serious family emergencies, special curricular requirements (e.g., judging trips, field trips, professional conferences), military obligation, severe weather conditions, religious holidays and participation in official university activities such as music performances, athletic competition or debate. Absences from class for court-imposed legal obligations (e.g., jury duty or subpoena) must be excused. The university recognizes the right of the individual professor to make attendance mandatory. After due warning, professors can prohibit further attendance and subsequently assign a failing grade for excessive absences.” The UF Twelve-Day Rule for student-athletes (<https://catalog.ufl.edu/ugrad/current/regulations/info/attendance.aspx#absences>) states that students who participate in athletic or scholastic teams are permitted to be absent 12 scholastic (regular class) days per semester without penalty. Students seeking this exemption must provide documentation to the instructor for each absence and must maintain satisfactory academic performance and attendance.

2. Religious observances

Students seeking modification of due dates for class participation, assignments, and exams for religious reasons (e.g., holiday observances) should contact the instructor in advance and request this modification; it will then be granted. Please make requests early in the semester.

3. Accommodations for students with disabilities - PLEASE READ

Students with disabilities requesting accommodations should first register with the Disability Resource Center (352-392-8565, www.dso.ufl.edu/drc/) by providing appropriate documentation. Once registered, students will receive an accommodation letter via email. It is not enough to simply forward the email to the instructor. You must present a hard copy to the instructor when requesting accommodations. This requires a face-to-face meeting. No accommodations will be granted until after the presentation of the letter and the meeting.

4. Academic honesty

UF students are bound by The Honor Pledge which states, “We, the members of the University of Florida community, pledge to hold ourselves and our peers to the highest standards of honor and integrity by abiding by the Honor Code. On all work submitted for credit by students at the University of Florida, the following pledge is either required or implied: “On my honor, I have neither given nor received unauthorized aid in doing this assignment.” The Honor Code (<https://www.dso.ufl.edu/sccr/process/student-conduct-honor-code/>) specifies a number of behaviors that are in violation of this code and the possible sanctions. Instances of dishonesty include conducting unauthorized research on the internet and failing to cite sources of information on any work submitted, as well as unauthorized collaborating with students or others to determine the answers on assignments and exams. Furthermore, you are obligated to report any condition that facilitates academic misconduct to appropriate personnel.

All suspected instances of violations of the Honor Code (plagiarism, copying, cheating) will be reported to the Dean of Students Office. Students who have not committed any prior violations will be sanctioned by the instructor; the usual penalty is a loss of all credit for the plagiarized assignment, or a grade of 0 on an exam. Students with prior violations will be sanctioned according to the Honor Code Resolution Process (<http://regulations.ufl.edu/wp-content/uploads/2012/09/4042.pdf>). If you are accused of academic dishonesty, you are not allowed to drop the course until the matter is resolved. DO NOT CHEAT—the penalties are too severe. If you have any questions about what constitutes cheating or plagiarism, or have concerns about completing an assignment on time, please consult with the instructor.

5. Counseling and Emergency Services

U Matter, We Care serves as the umbrella program for UF’s caring culture and provides students in distress with support and coordination of a wide variety of appropriate resources. Contact umatter@ufl.edu seven days a week for assistance if you are in distress. Call 352-392-1575 for a crisis counselor in the nighttime and weekends.

- Student Health Care Center, 392-1171
- Career Resource Center, Reitz Union, 392-1601
- Center for Sexual Assault/Abuse Recovery and Education (CARE), Student Health Care Center, 392-1161
- University Police Department 392-1111 (non-emergency); call 9-1-1 for emergencies

6. Online course evaluation process

Students are expected to provide feedback on the quality of instruction in this course based on 10 criteria. These evaluations are conducted online at <https://evaluations.ufl.edu>. Evaluations are typically open during the last two or three weeks of the semester, but students will be given specific times when they are open. Summary results of these assessments are available to students at <https://evaluations.ufl.edu/results>

7. Electronic Course Reserves

The electronic course reserve service is offered by the George A. Smathers Libraries. Under the Rehabilitation Act and the Americans with Disabilities Act, students with disabilities have the right to equal access, use and benefit of the course materials that have been placed on reserve in the Libraries.

Students who have registered with the Disability Resource Center should initiate their request for assistance and accommodation in accessing these materials. The Center will work with the Libraries Course Reserve Unit to provide accessible course materials. All information submitted by the student to the Libraries in fulfilling the request for accommodation will be kept confidential. For more information on services for students with disabilities, contact the DRC at 352-392-8565 or at accessuf@dso.ufl.edu. For general information on course reserves, please contact the Course Reserves Unit at 352-273-2520, or email at eres@uflib.ufl.edu.

If you are not using a UF computer, it is best to use the UF VPN client when accessing electronic materials course reserve materials as well as e-books, on-line journals, databases, etc. offered by the library. The VPN client is easily installed and configured, and provides easy access to electronic materials using off-campus computers. For more information on using the VPN client, go to <http://www.uflib.ufl.edu/login/vpn.html>

8. Software Regulations

All faculty, staff and students of the University are required and expected to obey the laws and legal agreements governing software use. Failure to do so can lead to monetary damages and/or criminal penalties for the individual violator. Because such violations are also against University policies and rules, disciplinary action will be taken as appropriate.
