Catalog Description: Examination of the cultural bases for the consumption of commodities in modern society, employing anthropological concepts and social science methods. Primary emphasis is on the social relationships enacted between people and the things they live with. All majors are welcome!

“Why do we have so much stuff?” This course answers that question with anthropological theories and concepts to investigate the close relationships that link people and the things they live with, especially relationships that drive consumption beyond basic needs. Special attention is given to clothing, household items, and techno-gear. We examine how these goods circulate in our modern society through studies of gifting, shopping, advertising, the “rituals” of product use, heirlooming, and the politics of recycling and trashing. We learn how things are drawn into our identities, how we extend our bodies and our selves through the things (real and virtual) we manipulate, how we create relationships to other people via things, how things come to have meanings and “social lives,” the sensuality and authenticity of things, and the practices and consequences of object discard and reuse. In short, this course focuses on anthropological theories and methods to analyze the “sociality” of goods, applied in real-life case studies of modern Westernized peoples.

General Education Objectives and Learning Outcomes:

This course is a social and behavioral sciences (S) subject area course in the UF General Education Program. Social and behavioral science courses provide instruction in the history, key themes, principles, terminology, and underlying theory or methodologies used in the social and behavioral sciences. Students learn to identify, describe and explain social institutions, structures or processes. These courses emphasize the effective application of accepted problem-solving techniques. Students apply formal and informal qualitative and quantitative analysis to examine the processes and means by which individuals make personal and group decisions, as well as the evaluation of opinions, outcomes or human behavior. Students also assess and analyze ethical perspectives in individual and societal decisions.

How are General Education Objectives Accomplished?

Throughout the semester students will:

1. Identify and describe, at macro- and micro-scales, contemporary social processes whereby humans create social relationships with their possessions, enact individual and group social identities through their possessions, and develop relationships to other humans in practices involving their possessions.
2. Analyze social science concepts and theories by applying them to real-life situations in students’ own lives, those in their immediate environs, and lives lived more virtually through social media.

3. Evaluate through qualitative and quantitative methods the impacts of relationships humans construct with their possessions via shopping, gifting, grooming, dispossession, recycling, and trashing.
4. Interpret consumptive practices in terms of both personal and group decisions, assessing the importance of the opinions of self and others in those decisions, including real and virtual communities.
5. Examine the historical roots of modern Western consumptive practices since the late 19th century, including the institutionalized gender and class bases of consumptive behaviors, objects, and spaces.
6. Discuss the ethical, moral, and political implications of over-consumption today: insatiable and unfulfilled desires and the unsustainability of over-production, clutter, and trash disposal.
7. Analyze at a more holistic level the disjunctures of personal and societal desires and needs, and the contradictions between what people may say about consumer goods and what they really do with them.
8. Communicate the knowledge gained, thoughts, reflections, reasoning, and conclusions, in both group discussions and assignments and individual essays and other forms of assessment.

How are General Education Student Learning Outcomes Assessed?

At the end of this course, students should have achieved the following learning outcomes in content, critical thinking, and communication evaluated via specific performance indicators:

Content SLO: Students demonstrate competence in the terminology, concepts, theories and methodologies used within anthropology and related social sciences. Every week students are introduced to essential social science concepts, and the influential 19th through 21st century theorists who innovated them, regarding the role of consumption in modern society. Specifically, these are relationships that people create (or deny) with consumer goods in acquiring, living with, and disposing of them. This content is delivered in lectures and through readings by anthropologists, cultural sociologists, and cultural geographers, as well as commentaries in newspapers, magazines, websites, videos, and blogs.

Competence in this SLO is demonstrated by the following assessments: three exams covering terminology, concepts, and theorists; 12 short writing assignments whereby students are required to apply their knowledge to real-life situations; in-class group activities utilizing concepts and methods; and the semester-long photo essay project that incorporates this content.

Critical Thinking SLO: Students carefully and logically analyze information from multiple perspectives, using discipline-specific methods, and develop reasoned solutions to problems in this subject area. During group activities during class periods, students are assigned problems to discuss and resolve utilizing knowledge of concepts and theories and directed forms of analysis. Outside of class students individually write 12 short focused essays and one long research paper. In the short essays they are directed to reflect on how concepts learned in class apply to their own and others' lives; some of these involve gathering and analyzing information from online resources. Some essays form a sequence whereby the same problems or topics are approached using different perspectives. In the long photo essay they integrate concepts and methods learned throughout the semester to analyze a specific consumer good through its life course or itinerary; this requires external research. Methods of analysis include participant-observation, surveys, case studies, sorting, ranking, semiotic network analysis, commodity chain analysis, ethnography, historical ethnography, object biography, and object itinerary.

Achievement of this outcome is assessed by performance in the in-class group activities, class discussions, short essays, and the long research paper. Feedback is provided so that students may improve their critical thinking and form reasoned conclusions. Two of the short essays help students formulate their long photo essay.

Communication SLO: Students clearly and effectively communicate knowledge, ideas, and reasoning in written and oral forms appropriate to anthropological inquiry. Students are required to participate in in-class activities requiring small group discussion to reach a consensus of conclusions or conduct a directed analysis. The product is a brief written report or other product (diagram, ppt slide) that is discussed with the class as a whole and turned in for credit. Major written communication takes the form of 12 short essays, from a choice of 19 topics, and one long photo essay that integrates images with text.

Achievement of this learning outcome is assessed in several ways. The instructor provides immediate feedback as the small groups engage in their individual discussion and class discussion, and on the written reports. The essays are graded according to a rubric, requiring demonstration of effective use of concepts and methods, appropriate forms of reasoning and conclusions, organization of content, writing style, spelling, and grammar. Individual feedback throughout the semester helps students improve their written communication skills and become better aware of course expectations. All uploaded written assignments go through Turnitin.

Career Readiness Competencies: This course prepares students for career readiness in the following areas: communication, critical thinking, sense of self, social responsibility (sense of others), and teamwork/collaboration (<https://www.crc.ufl.edu/students/>)

Required Readings:

1 book: Grant McCracken (1990) Culture and Consumption: New Approaches to the Symbolic Character of Consumer Goods and Activities. Indiana University Press ISBN 978-0253206282

NOTE: We read only some chapters of this classic book by a leading consumer anthropologist. To save money rent the book, read the reserve copy (Library West), or share the purchase price.

2. Other required readings are drawn from book chapters and journal articles dealing with material culture and consumer studies, as well as blogs, websites, newspaper items, and magazine articles.

Important: Readings should be completed before the class period for which they are assigned (this is the “flipped classroom”). We use class meeting times to discuss the readings and apply the concepts they introduce, so you must be prepared to participate. For Thursday’s double period, readings are listed separately for each period, but obviously they all must be completed before the first period.

E-learning:

This course is managed by elearning.ufl.edu (Canvas). The Modules tool has assignments and most required readings organized by week; e-journal articles can be downloaded from the library. The Assignments tool manages most written assignments. Check the Announcements tool regularly to keep up-to-date with course announcements.

Grade Evaluation and Methods:

3 exams 45% of grade (135 points)

The exams are administered in class and consist of 45 multiple-choice questions to assess comprehension of the major concepts and leading theorists (a list is provided prior to the exam). Each exam is worth 15% of the grade; the third exam is non-comprehensive. A scantron is provided.

12 short written homework assignments 20% of grade (60 points)

To evaluate how you are applying knowledge through specific methods and engaging in self-reflection, following certain lectures you are asked to write brief essays within a limited time frame. Suggested length is 400-500 words; specific instructions and grade rubrics are given with each assignment. Each assignment is worth 5 points (~1.5% of the grade). The first essay is required of everyone as a hard-copy, but for the numbered “blog post” assignments, choose 11 to do out of the 18 total (see schedule) uploaded on e-learning. Students may earn extra credit by turning in a 12th blog post.

participation in in-class activities 20% of grade (60 points)

Virtually every lecture period will include a class discussion, small group discussion, or other brief written class activity. Everyone is expected to be prepared for and to participate in these activities. They account for approximately 4 points (1.3% of the grade) for each regular class week.

photo essay project 15% of grade (45 points)

In week 4 you will be introduced to a research project, to “follow a thing” through its social life, biography, or itinerary. This project will result in a photo essay to be uploaded on e-learning. Detailed instructions will be provided to complete the project. There are specific deadlines for the photo essay topic, a brief description with starter bibliography, and the final paper. This project is your opportunity to apply the various concepts and methods learned throughout the semester.

Total: 100% (300 points)

Critical dates for exams and due dates for major assignments:

Exam 1: Tuesday, September 26

Exam 2: Tuesday, October 31 (happy Halloween!)

Exam 3: Tuesday, December 5

Photo Essay Project: topic with rationale: Thursday, October 12 (5 points)

project description with starter bibliography: Tuesday, November 7 (10 points)

final photo essay due Tuesday, December 12, 5:00 pm (30 points)

Strategies for Success - Or, How to Avoid Failure:

Attend every class—be on time and be prepared. Many activities begin at the start of class. Take careful notes in class. Keep up with all the readings each week. Create a glossary of the major concepts that are discussed (a list is provided for each exam). Ask questions in class or by email if you have any difficulty understanding the material. Meet with the instructor. You are asked to think, be imaginative, look for patterns, apply concepts, critically analyze, logically argue, and make interpretations—not just memorize.

Class Demeanor Expected by the Instructor:

Students are expected to be in their seats at the start of class (1:55). Cell phones should be silenced and stowed except when used in class activities. Laptop computers and tablets are allowed ONLY to access electronic readings, for note-taking, and on certain days to facilitate class activities. Newspapers and other reading materials not relevant to the class should be put away when class begins.

Contacting the Instructor:

The best method is by email; use the email address at the top of page 1. Put the course name or number in the subject line. Voicemail messages may be left on the office phone (on page 1). Make an appointment or drop by B338 (Turlington basement) during office hours.

Policies Related to Class Attendance, Late Assignments, and Missed Exams:

Attendance Policy: See <https://catalog.ufl.edu/ugrad/current/regulations/info/attendance.aspx> and p. 12 for types of excused absences and university attendance policy. Although daily attendance per se is not recorded, participation in in-class activities is recorded and is worth 20% of the final grade; an activity is worth approximately 1.6 pts. Only students with excused absences may be allowed to make up an activity within one week of the original absence. If you must miss class, it is your responsibility to obtain the lecture notes from a classmate

Make-up Exam Policy: Students may take an exam within one week after the due date with no penalty by asking the instructor for permission ahead of time to take a make-up. The make-up exam is different from the original exam and administered at the instructor's convenience. Please make every effort to take the exam with the class.

Late homework policy: Because you have a choice of “blog post” assignments, there is no allowance for a missed due date. If you miss the due date for a post, choose a later one to take its place.

Late submission of other assignments: Except for university-allowed excused absences, all other assignments should be turned in by the due date. They lose 25% of their value for every day late.

UF Grading policy and Course Grading Components:

For information on current UF grading policies for assigning grade points see <https://catalog.ufl.edu/ugrad/current/regulations/info/grades.aspx>

Every graded activity in this course earns points. Only the grade components listed above are used to determine your grade. Letter grades are based on a total of 300 points; see grading scale below.

Important: A minimum grade of C (210 points) is required for general education credit; C- does not fulfill that requirement. GPA points for each letter grade are provided in the bottom line of the chart.

270-300	264-269	255-263	240-254	234-239	225-233	210-224	204-209	195-203	180-194	174-179	173 or lower
4.00	3.67	3.33	3.00	2.67	2.33	2.00	1.67	1.33	1.00	0.67	0.00

The gradebook is “closed” on the date of the university-scheduled final exam for the class.

Schedule of Topics, Readings, and Assignments

see e-learning Modules for the most current information

McCracken = textbook; other readings available directly as pdf files or can be downloaded from library (see urls)

Required readings are to be completed by the class meeting date; note the required pages of a chapter or article.

Double-lectures on Thursday are listed separately and have their own reading assignments.

Any changes to this schedule will be announced well in advance on e-learning; watch for announcement emails

The following information is provided in conformance with University Policy: Please Read!

1. Policy related to class attendance, make-up exams, and other work

Requirements for class attendance, excused absences, make-up exams, assignments, and other work in this course are consistent with university policies (<https://catalog.ufl.edu/ugrad/current/regulations/info/attendance.aspx>). University policy states that absences count from the first class meeting. "In general, acceptable reasons for absence from or failure to participate in class include illness, serious family emergencies, special curricular requirements (e.g., judging trips, field trips, professional conferences), military obligation, severe weather conditions, religious holidays and participation in official university activities such as music performances, athletic competition or debate. Absences from class for court-imposed legal obligations (e.g., jury duty or subpoena) must be excused. The university recognizes the right of the individual professor to make attendance mandatory. After due warning, professors can prohibit further attendance and subsequently assign a failing grade for excessive absences." The UF Twelve-Day Rule for student-athletes (<https://catalog.ufl.edu/ugrad/current/regulations/info/attendance.aspx#absences>) states that students who participate in athletic or scholastic teams are permitted to be absent 12 scholastic (regular class) days per semester without penalty. Students seeking this exemption must provide documentation to the instructor for each absence and must maintain satisfactory academic performance and attendance.

2. Religious observances

Students seeking modification of due dates for class participation, assignments, and exams for religious reasons (e.g., holiday observances) should contact the instructor in advance and request this modification; it will then be granted. Please make requests early in the semester.

3. Accommodations for students with disabilities - PLEASE READ

Students with disabilities requesting accommodations should first register with the Disability Resource Center (352-392-8565, www.dso.ufl.edu/drc/) by providing appropriate documentation. Once registered, students will receive an accommodation letter via email. It is not enough to simply forward the email to the instructor. You must present a hard copy to the instructor when requesting accommodations. This requires a face-to-face meeting. No accommodations will be granted until after the presentation of the letter and the meeting.

4. Academic honesty

UF students are bound by The Honor Pledge which states, "We, the members of the University of Florida community, pledge to hold ourselves and our peers to the highest standards of honor and integrity by abiding by the Honor Code. On all work submitted for credit by students at the University of Florida, the following pledge is either required or implied: “On my honor, I have neither given nor received unauthorized aid in doing this assignment.” The Honor Code (<https://www.dso.ufl.edu/sccr/process/student-conduct-honor-code/>) specifies a number of behaviors that are in violation of this code and the possible sanctions. Instances of dishonesty include conducting unauthorized research on the internet and failing to cite sources of information on any work submitted, as well as unauthorized collaborating with students or others to determine the answers on assignments and exams. Furthermore, you are obligated to report any condition that facilitates academic misconduct to appropriate personnel.

All suspected instances of violations of the Honor Code (plagiarism, copying, cheating) will be reported to the Dean of Students Office. Students who have not committed any prior violations will be sanctioned by the instructor; the usual penalty is a loss of all credit for the plagiarized assignment, or a grade of 0 on an exam. Students with prior violations will be sanctioned according to the Honor Code Resolution Process (<http://regulations.ufl.edu/wp-content/uploads/2012/09/4042.pdf>). If you are accused of academic dishonesty, you are not allowed to drop the course until the matter is resolved. DO NOT CHEAT—the penalties are too severe. If you have any questions about what constitutes cheating or plagiarism, or have concerns about completing an assignment on time, please consult with the instructor.

5. Counseling and Emergency Services

U Matter, We Care serves as the umbrella program for UF’s caring culture and provides students in distress with support and coordination of a wide variety of appropriate resources. Contact umatter@ufl.edu seven days a week for assistance if you are in distress. Call 352-392-1575 for a crisis counselor in the nighttime and weekends.

- the University Counseling Center, 301 Peabody Hall, 392-1575; <http://www.counseling.ufl.edu/cwc/Default.aspx>
- Student Health Care Center, 392-1171
- Career Resource Center, Reitz Union, 392-1601
- Center for Sexual Assault/Abuse Recovery and Education (CARE), Student Health Care Center, 392-1161
- University Police Department 392-1111 (non-emergency); call 9-1-1 for emergencies

6. Online course evaluation process

Students are expected to provide feedback on the quality of instruction in this course based on 10 criteria. These evaluations are conducted online at <https://evaluations.ufl.edu>. Evaluations are typically open during the last two or three weeks of the semester, but students will be given specific times when they are open. Summary results of these assessments are available to students at <https://evaluations.ufl.edu/results>

7. Electronic Course Reserves

The electronic course reserve service is offered by the George A. Smathers Libraries. Under the Rehabilitation Act and the Americans with Disabilities Act, students with disabilities have the right to equal access, use and benefit of the course materials that have been placed on reserve in the Libraries.

Students who have registered with the Disability Resource Center should initiate their request for assistance and accommodation in accessing these materials. The Center will work with the Libraries Course Reserve Unit to provide accessible course materials. All information submitted by the student to the Libraries in fulfilling the request for accommodation will be kept confidential. For more information on services for students with disabilities, contact the DRC at 352-392-8565 or at accessuf@dso.ufl.edu. For general information on course reserves, please contact the Course Reserves Unit at 352-273-2520, or email at eres@uflib.ufl.edu.

If you are not using a UF computer, it is best to use the UF VPN client when accessing electronic materials course reserve materials as well as e-books, on-line journals, databases, etc. offered by the library. The VPN client is easily installed and configured, and provides easy access to electronic materials using off-campus computers. For more information on using the VPN client, go to <http://www.uflib.ufl.edu/login/vpn.html>

8. Software Regulations

All faculty, staff and students of the University are required and expected to obey the laws and legal agreements governing software use. Failure to do so can lead to monetary damages and/or criminal penalties for the individual violator. Because such violations are also against University policies and rules, disciplinary action will be taken as appropriate.
